

Alcohol Permitting

Professionals

Erin Cowan Mosley

Andrea Easler

David R. Cannon

To succeed in the hospitality industry, businesses must achieve high customer satisfaction. Likewise, Nexsen Pruet's alcohol permitting and hospitality law team works to provide the same level of satisfaction for our clients through responsive and comprehensive legal advice.

Dealing with the regulatory, community and legal aspects of alcohol permitting can mean the difference between a failed investment and a successful business. Members of our group regularly appear before administrative law judges and regulatory agencies on behalf of clients.* We can also help businesses respond to enforcement issues, including those related to alcohol permits.

Broad, relevant experience

Businesses that require alcohol permitting also have other legal issues. Our experienced lawyers have wide experience in alcohol licensing, business licensing, legal requirements of advertising and promotion, and employment and immigration issues.

Attorneys in the group have active practices in many other areas of law, including:

- Construction
- Financial services
- Employment and Labor
- Real estate
- Intellectual property
- Litigation
- Regulatory
- Land use and zoning

Nexsen Pruet's staff includes experienced, registered lobbyists.*

Insights

03.19.2020

COVID-19 Impact on Alcohol Sales in North Carolina

03.19.2020

COVID-19 Impact on Alcohol Sales in South Carolina