Nexsen Pruet is taking alumni networking to the next level.

Nexsen Pruet announced today the launch of Next Level Network – a forum designed to connect the talent, ideas, and resources of current and former Nexsen Pruet employees to achieve a greater professional impact.

Through events, content, and collaboration opportunities, Next Level Network will bring together the brightest minds in the legal industry – even if their careers have taken them elsewhere – to support one another in career development.

“Our longstanding history in the legal industry – combined with our geographic reach across the Southeast – has helped us create a considerable network of professionals who can offer one another a broad range of capabilities and expertise,” said Leighton Lord, Board Chairman of Nexsen Pruet. “We’re excited to organize opportunities for these individuals to collaborate and look forward to the strong relationships and lifelong career support the network is intended to provide.”

With a growing membership of nearly 600 professionals across the United States, Next Level Network is built on three key pillars:

- Events, with a focus on CLE opportunities, to help advance career goals
- Content to provide insight on key industry topics, firm news, and upcoming events
- Collaboration to support fellow members in advancing professional projects and reaching new milestones
