Suite 900
104 South Main Street
Greenville, South Carolina 29601

Not far from the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, located in the center of the Char-Lanta mega-region (one of 25 regional powerhouses of the global economy), sits Greenville – the heart of innovation, manufacturing and international investment in South Carolina.

Since Greenville decided to reimagine the very idea of what a thriving downtown could be, the world has taken note of how special the city is – everyone from the New York Times to Global Trade Magazine has listed it among the best of the best. But Nexsen Pruet knew that Greenville was special more than 25 years ago, when Joel Stoudenmire joined the firm and established our Greenville office.

As businesses flock to this favorable climate, Nexsen Pruet's Greenville attorneys have been with them every step of the way. Many of the world's most recognized and renowned companies, who call Greenville home rely on Nexsen Pruet to handle their legal needs.

Jim Warren, Greenville Office-Managing Partner, leads a dynamic and award-winning group of attorneys, including former Chief Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit William W. "Billy" Wilkins, handling employment and labor, real estate, white collar defense, economic development, corporate, tax and intellectual property matters.

Nexsen Pruet is proud to continue to grow with Greenville.
